

Decision Desk HQ To Provide 2018 Midterm Election Results To Reuters

September 17, 2018 — Decision Desk HQ, a leading provider of election night results and data, is pleased to announce that it will be providing Reuters with live vote totals for each of the U.S. House of Representatives, U.S. Senate, and gubernatorial contests, as well as key state ballot questions.

2018 marks the second straight election cycle in which Decision Desk HQ will provide Reuters with election night vote tallies.

“We are thrilled to once again be working with Reuters to provide their U.S. and international audiences with accurate and fast election night returns. Their political coverage and graphic presentations are second to none and we look forward to seeing our results products in their editorial coverage and distributed worldwide to their subscribers.”-Drew McCoy, Decision Desk HQ.

“We’ve seen a growing demand for midterms coverage from our customers as election day approaches,” said Sue Brooks, interim head of Reuters News Agency. “Working with Decision Desk HQ to get real-time election night data allows us to provide faster results and analysis to customers, their readers and Reuters audiences around the world.”

The first polls close in the U.S. at 6pm eastern on November 6th (Indiana and Kentucky) and just as they have throughout the course of the 2018 primary season, Decision Desk HQ will be collecting, organizing, and reporting results until every ballot is counted, days, weeks, and perhaps even months later.
